VERDICT NOT GUILTY FOR ED BOUKNIGHT

FIRST CASE BROUGHT BY DETECTIVES TRIED YESTERDAY

WAS ONLY CASE

Tried Yesterday and Was Before Jury—Mr. C. B. Earle Represented the Defendant.

Ed Bouknight, arrested on a warrant charging him with selling liquor, which was sworn out because of evidence secured by special detectives, was tried in mayor's court yesterday morning.

The following jury heard the case: Messrs. J. T. Frazier, foreman; P. E. Stephens, E. W. Masters, C. H. E. Ortman, T. S. Maxwell and W. C. Babb.

Messrs. A. G. McMann and Lloyd Jones, the detectives, testified for the prosecution while Brigham Young, Will Neal, Baxter Davis and Ed Bouknight, the defendant, testified for the defense.

The jury returned a verdict of not guilty in this case. No other cases were tried yesterday.

Economizing Labor.

Jim had looked in at the country livery stable in search of a job. He seemed promising and was set to work greasing the axles of a carriage.

"Look here," said his new boss, "I've mean to say you've greased all four of them wheels already."

"Weel," rejoined the new hand, "Aa've greased the two front ones."

"And why haven't you greased the two hind ones?"

"Weel," exclaimed Jim calmly, "so lang as the two front ones gass all reet, the two hind ones hev to foller."

VIENNA IS BEGINNING TO FEEL WAR'S EFFECTS

Prices of Food Have Advanced By Leaps and Bounds in Capital.

Zurich, Switzerland, Nov. 30.—After fourteen months Vienna is beginning to realize the effects of the war, which hitherto had left little outward mark on the life of the Austrian capital.

Much of the trouble is due to the army having taken nine-tenths of the strong, able-bodied laboring men from the city. Hardly any teamsters are left, and great quantities of flour, and provisions and coal are lying in the railway warehouses and yards, causing a serious congestion.

Another cause of the present high prices of food is the manipulator of speculators, who are hiding large stores of provisions, and so creating an artificial shortage in the markets.

Immediatly before the war a quarter of a pound of a time—large stocks suddenly came on the market and prices fell at once to a dollar. Convinced that huge stocks of foodstuffs were somewhere in existence in the city, the Vienna police have just made a thorough search of all the storage warehouses resulting in some surprising discoveries.

Although the new flour is now in the market the supply in the retail bakeries is very limited.

In the poorer suburbs people gather around the stores as early as three o'clock in the morning and by six o'clock the crowd will number anywhere from five hundred to a thousand persons, mostly women and children.

The bakeries open at seven and the sign of "sold out" is generally put up before eight o'clock.

Later comers can get nothing. Many poor persons earn a couple of cents by flour for their neighbors who do not care to stand for hours in the street these cold autumn mornings.

Since the military authorities requisitioned all the stocks of rubber tires in the country, and even took away those actually in use on the cars of private owners, automobiles have almost disappeared from the streets of Vienna.

There are no more motor cabs; the few cars still seen are either occupied by army officers or have some connection with the war.

And there seems to be no end to the demands and appeals for money for various charitable and military objects.

The Vienna Neue Freie Presse has started since the war began, collections for more than a hundred different funds and have succeeded in raising over a million dollars.

The largest individual benefaction is the red cross for which the Presse has collected $15,000.

Next comes the fund for the blind soldiers, which receives $140,000.

Two other objects for which the paper has made collections include one for furnishing artificial limbs for the wounded soldiers; for the families of reservists called to the front, and for the Austrian submarines.

Altogether there are no less than 156 different funds for some of which less than ten dollars have been subscribed.

Prosperity in Electricity

By James J. Hill

"Electric energy can be carried anywhere and into it other physical forces may easily be transformed.

It has therefore taken the place of millions of human hands. Nor is there any ascertainable limit to which its use may be put.

A great transformation has been wrought in the lifetime of a single generation.

Railroad engines, street cars, elevators, all sorts of light power machinery, are now fitted with electric motors.

The mysterious force is busy about our houses, lighting, sweeping, washing, cooking, heating and performing deftly and quietly scores of labor tasks.

The country calls for it. Much of the manual labor about the farms might be performed by this subtle agent that already knows how to milk a cow.

GRANTED CHANGE OF VENUE YESTERDAY

FOUR MEN CHARGED WITH DISORDERLY CONDUCT, DRUNKENNESS, ETC

OCCURRED NOV. 20

Alleged Four Men Made Attack On Constable H. D. Hendrix to Rescue Arrested Party.

A change of venue was granted yesterday morning in the case of Jim, John, Will and Mart Bryant, charged with drunkenness, disorderly conduct and interfering with an officer in the discharge of his duty, when the case was called for preliminary trial before Judge Geiger.

It will be remembered that it is alleged that on the night of Saturday, November 20, Constable H. D. Hendrix started an arrest of one of a party and landed to the jail from the Equinox mill. He was attacked by the alleged four, it is alleged, and an effort made to take the prisoner from him.

Successful Advertising Cuts Selling Cost.

In the current issue of Farm and Fireside we read:

"Buyers of goods, whether advertised or not, often think: Who pays these big advertising bills? When I buy, don't I pay my share of it? Doesn't the advertising cause prices to be higher? Doesn't it all come out of that unversary victim—the Ultimate Consumer?"

"This question is answered by an examination of the per cent of the selling price consumed in the cost of selling goods which are extensively advertised and those which are not."

"Among the largest advertiser in the country are two great clothing houses that sell men's and boys' clothing. These people who spend fortunes in advertising to get their goods from their hands to the shelves of their customers at an expense of from five to six per cent of the selling price."

"The average cost of selling goods which are not advertised is twelve per cent."

"Instead of being a burden on the consumer, advertising is a boon to him. Advertising saves off his back half the burden of transportation from the manufacturer to the buyer. The advertisement is the lowest salaried agent in the world. If it were not true the best business men would not be the greatest advertisers. If there were a cheaper way of getting to the people the news about their goods, they would find it and use it."

"The misfortune of the farmer is that he handles his goods in such small quantities that he cannot economically advertise, and one of the benefits of a broad co-operation ought to be the possibility of using for the products of the farm that cheapest and best of all traveling men—the printed page, which makes its journey in a mail bag."

Will Be Hard Fought.

We are going to be confronted with a Spanish effort more stubborn than usual. They are laying hard in the nation. They have been outside the state and county commissions so long that the young men of old line Republicans are not made of their party allegiance and are looking with favor upon the party that has proven its worth to the nation and particularly in the South. The leading Republican of North Carolina and the nation know that 1916 will be high in the destiny of their party—that so-called "protection" it put to sleep four more years, can never be again. The leaders of both parties know this. For these reasons the 1916 campaign is going to be hard fought in every reasonably close county and state in the nation.—Troy Montourian.

A Notable Wedding Present.

A few American families of distinction take pride in a remote infusion of Indian blood and included among them is the family of Mrs. Galt, the president's fiancée. What is of present interest in this connection is the fact that the news has reached and greatly pleased the Indians of the far West who are proud to claim kinship with the future First Lady of the land, the only representative of the aboriginal race of this continent who has ever lived in the White House.

The Season in the South. We are very well prepared to believe the reports coming out of New York that the Christmas trade is likely to surpass in volume all previous records. They are explaining it on the fact that there is an abundance of money in the banks and in the country and that there is a revival of industry in all parts of the United States. In the South, the Christmas trade will be representative of the difference between cotton at six cents and cotton around 18 cents. The elongated face and the willow pucker of the Christmas of 1914 will give way to the rotund face with the ear-former rolls. There will be jollity in the air during the South's 1915 holiday season and it will be a time for high stepping and "sassy" talk. The doubled price on a bale of cotton makes a tremendous difference.—Charlotte Observer.

The Jap Soldiers. We have an idea that if Japan should send an army to Europe, the Germans would experience the thrill of contact with fighters whose military efficiency is fully on a par with their own. The Japanese foot soldier is a wonder, and Japanese heavy artillery gave itself a memorable introduction to Germany at Klauchau immediately following the outbreak of the present war.—Albany Herald.
